DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. This action is responsive to an amendment filed on 08/03/2006. Claims 7-10 are pending. Claims 1-6 and 11 have been previously cancelled.

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's arguments mailed on 08/03/2006 Remarks have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Regarding claims 7, 8 and 10, the Applicant argues on page 3, lines 8-10 that "Parry fails to teach or suggest that the other Web-based device is identified by address information associated with an identity tag as recited in the claimed invention". The examiner disagrees with this argument. Parry teaches a remote user making [i.e., transmitting] downloading request [i.e., identity tag] to Web server to download data and transmit it to another Web-based device (see col.11, lines 55-63). It is clear that the request includes an address of the another Web-based device such that transmission of the data is possible. Thus, Parry teaches or suggests that the other Web-based device is identified by address information associated with an identity tag as recited in the claimed invention. Therefore the rejection of the claims in view of Parry remain.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 7-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Parry (U.S. 7,002,703).

Regarding claims 7, 8 and 10, Parry teaches a system including a user operable PDA [i.e., portable radio communication device] (col.9, line 15) and an object device connected to a network, the portable radio communication device comprising:

a transmitter for transmitting a identity tag indicative of the identity of the portable radio communication device) (fig.3; col.9, line 15, col.11, lines 55-67).

the Web server [i.e., object device] comprising a receiver, and a processor (fig.3, item 52). (Note: receiver and processor are inherent in the Web server) in response to the receiver receiving an identity tag transmitted from a portable radio communication device, the processor authorizing the downloading of information via the network to another Web-based device [i.e., remote server or terminal] identified by address information associated with the identity tag (col.11, lines 55-67).

Art Unit: 2614

Regarding claim 9, Parry teaches that the portable radio communication device is inherently a passive device (fig.3).

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Frantz (U.S. 6,904,264) teach Method requesting and paying for download digital radio content.

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
